Douglas Griffin, Ralph Stacey : Complexity and the Experience of Leading Organizations (Complexity as the Experience of Organizing) before purchasing it in order to gauge whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Complexity and the Experience of Leading Organizations (Complexity as the Experience of Organizing):

The contributors to this book are leaders, consultants or managers in organizations who provide narrative accounts of their actual work and daily experience. They explore how the perspective of complex responsive processes assists them to make sense of their experience and so to develop their practice. Offering a different method of making sense of an individual's experience in a rapidly changing world, this book uses reflective accounts of ordinary everyday life in organizations rather than idealized accounts. The editor's commentary introduces and contextualizes these experiences as well as drawing out key themes for further research.
