I like to read new books on financial planning, not necessarily on investments but on planning and starting out and how to turn around a slow moving disaster. Cary's book is one of those, while it focuses on women, she says the same things that I tell clients every day, build a budget and stick to it, pay yourself first, don't be so afraid of short term losses you keep all your money in cash. I also like how she broke down life into decades give milestones for each of them. I give a seminar pretty often that has the same kind of structure. I think that way, the younger folks don't give up because they think the book is focused solely on those about to retire and those about to retire know that the section specific to them is farther along in the book but that their kids or grandchildren even may benefit from the earlier chapters, The book is excellent for women and men. Most young people would do very well to read this and keep it handy. 2 of 2 people found the following review helpful. A Must Read For All Women By Miss Tiffany This book was an easy and must read for all women. It was practical and it makes me want to be more accountable for my financial relationship with money. This is written in a way that those of us that are not financial literate can understand. I would high recommend this for all women, especially those in their 20's. I appreciate Cary sharing her own personal story, and the stories of her client's. By her sharing her story, it made an intimidating subject for me easier to address with myself and my husband. Saving money is not my strong point, but after reading this I am read to make the adjustments. I am glad the book was not very lengthy, so it is easy to reference back to. This is a great gift for young girls to have in their library. I am glad I read this book, not only for my own self knowledge, but to share this vital information with my daughters as well. Tiffany 1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. it's easy to read By Tina Powell FINALLY, a contemporary and sassy, practical financial guide that is written for today's modern woman!!! Cary's book is a 'diamond in the rough' ladies. First off, it's easy to read. No decoding of financial jargon and gobbledegook within these well-written and concise 144 pages. Secondly, the chapters contain actionable advice for every decade of your life with great titles like, "Your Roaring 20's: The Journey Begins and Your Fabulous 50's: Avoiding Landmines." The information in these sections are useful, especially for that sandwich generation mom who is caring for her parents while supporting her own children and wants to make sure all the women in her life is doing the right things financially. Last and most importantly, is the fact that this book is written by a practicing female CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PROFESSIONAL TM who currently deals with her own clients on the front lines, understanding all aspects of financial planning, and how good decision making positively impacts a woman's life. The anecdotes are visceral, personal and very real. Overall, the book is empowering and gives all women a leg up on building wealth and banishing fear. Bravo!

Are you a material girl? The truth is that, as women, we all have a unique relationship with money. We strive for financial security to support our family, ensure we can retire comfortably, create independence separate from our partners, and along the way, buy some nice purses. As much as we are motivated to make money, we often do not consider the crucial relationship between what we do today and how it WILL impact our life tomorrow. From your Roaring 20's, to your Thrifty 30's, and all the way to your (hopefully) Smooth 60's, Money Queen Lady will work to guide you through each of these financial decades and provide insight and detailed guidance into the steps you can take, and the decision you should make to build a financially responsible future. Financial security is an exciting journey we can take together. So pack your purse and get ready for the ride . . .

This is one book that talks straight to women, helping them navigate the special financial issues that they, as women, have to deal with." - Eleanor Blayney, CFP®, Consumer Advocate for CFP Board, Author of "Women's Worth: Finding Your Financial Confidence" From the Author The most common question I get is why did you write this book. After 25 years of experience, I wanted to reach more women. I want to help them to make better decisions surrounding money. Financial literacy is weak for women and men. I also want to arm women with knowledge which is power to help themselves. I want them to be able to stand on their own feet and never become a victim. My mission in my lifetime is to help and protect women. It is who I am and what I stand for. I also wanted it to be fun from a girlfriends point of view! I hope this changes women's lives.
