Terrific ResourceBy Cooking GardenerThis book is great for a lot of reasons but the links to many helpful resources alone make it worth the price. I doubt it is a coincidence that the negative reviews for this book were primarily written within a 2-day period. This book is suitable for anyone who is already retired, or who still has years to work.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Great GiftBy Cara DolanIt was a gift for my dad. He really seems to like it. He's getting close to retirement and has been doing a lot of research.

As you think about retirement, you've got facts to face, planning to do, decisions to make and numbers to crunch. With the experts at The Wall Street Journal to guide you, you'll learn how to tailor a financial plan for the lifestyle you want. Answers your biggest question—How big does my nest egg need to be?—by linking it to your particular hopes for how you want to spend your days in retirement. Shows how to translate your dreams and interests into daily activities, whether traveling, opening a business, volunteering or going back to school. Provides a timeline for decisions to make and steps to take ten years, five years and one year before you retire. Offers tips on investing wisely and working with the right financial adviser. Tells you how to maximize your benefits from Social Security and Medicare. Guides you through the intricacies of 401(k)s, IRAs, annuities and other financial tools and resources. Today, the average person can expect to spend two decades in retirement—why leave it to chance? For all of its changes and challenges, a well-planned retirement could very well be the best part of your life. From the Trade Paperback edition.

From Booklist Be prepared should now be the boomers' slogan for the upcoming wide world of retirement—and for the stampede of how-to books. Two seasoned journalists, both of whom regularly cover retirement topics, team to produce a warm and friendly guide to the art and science of this new lifestyle. What is featured here? A bunch of personal stories that will resonate with readers. There's Chicago couple Pam and Larry Satek, who planned a new career as winery owners; former baseball great Nolan Ryan, who, through fits and starts, found his new space; and Judge Herb Folkman, whose second career led to Hollywood. Other topics, from money to relocation, echo those found elsewhere. A healthy dose of informative sidebars, whether listing Web sites that help check financial advisors' backgrounds or answering questions on combatting age discrimination questions, add value. As promised, true windows into the best lives yet to come. Jacobs, Barbara About the Author GLENN RUFFENACH developed and now edits "Encore," The Wall Street Journal's bimonthly guide to retirement planning and living. KELLY GREENE has covered retirement planning since 2001 as a staff reporter at The Wall Street Journal, where she works for "Encore"; and writes a weekly retirement column.
